WHITE STOCKINGS VS. ATHLETICS.
Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—The third game between the Chicago and Athletic Clubs was played here to-day in the presence of some 1,200 people. It was very well umpired by Hatfield, formerly of the Mutuals. On the send-off, matters looked rather blue for the Whites, and the crowd were elated almost beyond measure. The Athletics, losing the toss, went to bat, and Force's hit to Hines was muffed, though there was some excuse for the error, as the hit was a bad one to get at. Fislser and Meyerle then followed with clean hits, and Hall hit a high bouncer which Barnes muffed, while the crowd cheered, and two runs came in. To add to the blunders, Glenn then muffed a fly from Knight, and a third run was scored. This extraordinary display of fielding was stopped there, and threemen were put out at second in quick succession. Coming to bat, the Whites went vigorously to work to redeem themselves, and earned two runs by Barnes' hit for a base, Hines for a couple, Anson for three bases, and Spalding for two bags—a total of eight bases by four men. In the second inning, Peters got square on the sphere for three bags, and was sent home on Barnes' clean hit. This tied the score, but in the following inning the home nine got another run in the person of Fislser, who hit well for two bases, and was sent home by Meyerle and Knight, who batted safely, but were themselves left. The score was again tied in the fifth inning by Hines' run, which was made off a two-baser to left, and a clean hit by McVey, on which the runner came home. In the sixth inning the fun of the game commenced, and the Whites seemed to fully wake up to the fact that they were playing with a lively ball. Bielaski led off with a safe dropper over second, and White hit away into left field for a base. Peters planned a right-field hit to prevent a double play, and, when Coons muffed the ball, Bielaski came home, White went to third, and the striker to second. Glenn followed with a model shooter over second, and two men came in. After Barnes had gone out, Hines hit sharply past Force and was safe. Anson followed with a hot one to Meyerle, on which Glenn was forced, but in trying to get the runner as well Meyerle threw low to Knight, and, when the ball was muffed, Hines came home, and Anson took third, whence his run was brought in by McVey's fine liner to left. Spalding's long fly to Fislser closed the inning for five runs, and really settled the game at once. The seventh and eighth innings brought singles for the Whites by Peters and Anson, the former's being earned, and the latter gained on a muff by Force. After putting the Athletics out in the ninth inning for a blank, the Whites went in to improve their averages. Peters and Glenn led off with safe hits, while Barnes hit the ball "square in the nose" for three bases, and was brought home by Hines' clean hit. The history of the Athletic batting after the third inning is plainly told in their row of ciphers, and in the statement that they only hit the ball fairly four times in the last six innings.

REMARKS.

To-day's game was by all odds the best batting display the Whites have made this season, and was also a model of fielding after the first inning—only one error being made the last eight. There were not many brilliant plays, though a couple of catches each by Hines and Glenn would have been called wonderful if made in any other nine. Perhaps the most amusing bit of play was in the seventh inning, when Zettlein hit hard to Anson, and that player juggled and fumbled the ball for what seemed a minute, ending by letting it bound off him to Peters, who snatched it up and sent it over to first in time to catch the runner. Zet was saluted by the crowd with ironical cheers for his fast running. The excellent play of Bielaski in the field and at the bat justifies Manager Spalding in putting him in the nine even to the exclusion of the veteran Addy. The Whites have up to to-night played nine championship games on this trip, winning eight, and making 66 runs to 23 by their opponents. This seems to justify the title of coming champions which is generally applied to the nine by the Eastern press.
