THE CHICAGOS, FOR THE SEVENTH TIME, "LAY
OUT" THE LOUISVILLES.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 1.—The Chicagos and Louisvilles played their seventh game in this city to-day, and this, like all the preceding games, ended in favor of the Whites. From an article that appeared in one of the morning papers, the Whites expected that a very dead ball would be furnished, but, on the contrary, a very lively one was put in. The Louisvilles went to the bat, and opened up on Spalding at a lively rate. Their first striker, Gerhardt, hit the first ball pitched away over Hines' head, and made a clean home run. Devlin, Hague, and Chapman followed with safe hits, filling the bases, when Hastings put up a fly to McVey, who allowed it to strike his hand and bound towards Spalding, who threw to White, putting out Devlin, and White to Anson, putting out Hague, and accomplishing a very neat double play. Chapman scored the third run of the inning on Fulmer's and Snyder's safe hits. The Louisville players became very much encouraged at this fine starter, and the audience were delighted. Barnes opened up for the Chicagos by taking his base on called balls. Somerville allowed Peters' and Anson's hard hits to get away from him. Hague made an excusable error off White's hit, and Hines made a two-baser. All this yielded the Whites four runs, and gave them the lead, which they maintained throughout the game. The Louisvilles were blanked in the second inning, and the Whites added six runs to their score by the safe batting of Glenn, Peters, McVey, Anson, and White, assisted by several bad errors. The cover was knocked off the ball in this inning, and a new one was substituted. The home nine got on to Spalding again in the third inning, and scored four runs, Hastings, Somerville, and Devlin making singles, and Fulmer a clean home run. The Whites made three of their four errors in this inning. From this out the fielding of the Chicagos was perfect, and the home nine failed to bat with any effect. Appended is
