

BASE-BALL.

CHICAGO—LOUISVILLE.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3.—The game to-day between the Louisville and Chicago Clubs ended in a rather unsatisfactory manner, especially to the White Stockings. Mr. Houtz, of the Indianapolis Club, officiated as umpire. The game opened with Louisville at the bat, and Gerhardt, their first striker, scored the only run made by the home nine on Bielaski's error in allowing his hard hit to go by him, and was batting by Hague. Barnes opened up for the Whites with a fair-foul for two bases, and came home on McVey's fine drive to centre-field. The visitors drew blanks in the second inning, and made three runs in the third by good batting. The fourth inning was quickly played, without either side scoring. The weather had been threatening all through the game, and it became evident that it would require lively work to finish the required fifth inning. The Louisvilles were quickly blanked, and the Chicagos went to the bat determined to finish the inning if possible, while the home nine were equally as determined, if not more so, that it should not be done. Spalding instructed his men to hit free, and commenced the inning himself by hitting the first ball pitched to Soinerville, who gracefully muffed it. Bielaski followed with another hit to the same player, who repeated his previous performance. Glenn hit safe, but was thrown out in attempting to steal second base. Barnes' foul fly fell into Hastings' unwilling hands. At this point it was very evident that rain would soon put a stop to further proceedings, though it must be said that the inning could easily have been finished and part of another, had the home nine so decided it. The Louisvilles were bound not to have another game added to the Chicagos' long list of victories if they could help it. Devlin pitched very high and wild, and Peters struck out only to find the ball first muffed by Hastings and then thrown over Gerhardt's head down to the fence. While Peters cantered in, McVey struck to Falmer, and made a home-run on a 50-foot throw over Gerhardt's head. Anson made another run on a similar play, and a thousand runs might have been scored before a man would have been put out. The umpire became vexed at these proceedings, and, seeing that there was no hopes of finishing the inning, decided the game in favor of the Chicagos by a score of 9 to 0, whereupon the Chicagos left the grounds amidst much excitement among the players and spectators. It is probable the Chicagos will accede to the wishes of the Louisville Club and waive the decision of the umpire, and play the game off Monday, rather than have a litigation before the League about it.

THE BOSTONS DEFEAT THE ATHLETICS AGAIN.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—The Athletics played the sixth game of the series here to-day. The visitors failed to understand Manning, and fielded rather loosely at times, while the Bostons played finely. The features of the game were the wonderful catching of Brown, the batting of Leonard, and Manning's clean home run in the sixth. Both of the Athletic catchers were sore, and they got Ward from one of the amateur clubs.
